The Charlton Tavern where there are no strangers...

Only friends who have not yet met.

Thank you, The Maloneys

Welcome to "the Old Charlton House", Circa 1787. That was the year George Washington presided over the drafting of our Constitution in Philadelphia, PA. That same year, in the village of Charlton, NY, Elmer Smith opened this building as a stage coach stop. The tavern was on the ground floor and the ballroom was located on the second level. Our present kitchen and adjoining blue dining room are located in what was once a barn and livery stable. The gold dining room with the wall mural was added on about 1835 to join the main house with the barn.

Throughout the years the building has changed many times. There were structural additions and remodeling of the inside and out. In 1969, under its present ownership, a large scale renovation and restoration was undertaken. The hand hewn beams in the ceilings were exposed and the old floors refurnished. The interior walls were re-constructed. The interior walls were re-constructed with materials of yesteryear. The fireplace brick was transplanted from beehive ovens found in the cellar and combined with free standing mantel beams to form our present fireplace. All of this required many hours of TLC, but like an old shoe, it wears well and we hope you enjoy.

Surrounded by his family, William Maloney passed January 4, 2009 in his home. Led by his beloved wife Ethel, Thursday afternoon, his casket was walked through snow covered Charlton for the last time, flanked with Irish Bagpipers.

As if by providence, on January 9, 2009 the Charlton Tavern also passed, due to fire. With the love and support of family and friends, not unlike the fabled "Phoenix rising from the ashes". The Heart of Charlton has been refitted and returned to its rightful place of meetings and gatherings for all.
